InstructionSchool Library Media

The Brookfield School Library Media Centers provide informational, cultural and recreational resources, without prejudice as to format, to support the goals and objectives of the Brookfield Schools and to guide our patrons to become effective users of information.

The collection in each library media center provides a variety of curriculum-related instructional materials representing literary appreciation, opposing points of view and a global perspective. These materials will take into consideration the varied interests, abilities and maturity levels of our students.

In order to enhance the collection, the library media centers will encourage gifts of books, other printed materials, media, works of art, memorabilia and money for the purchase of books or other resources.

The quality of the collection will be maintained by removing from the working collections obsolete and unused materials on a continuous basis.

The following administrative guidelines will be followed with regard to selection, gifts, weeding and reconsideration of materials.

Appeals to Challenged Library Materials

The principles of intellectual freedom are basic to the selection of library materials. Occasionally, there may be objections to library material by concerned citizens. The Board of Education recognizes the right of an individual parent/guardian to request that his/her child's library selection be limited, and certain books or themes prohibited. Residents SHALL NOT have the right to determine library materials for students other than their own. Assuming all steps regarding the reconsideration of materials outlined in relevant policies and regulations have been completed, the procedure for the Board to process appealed challenges is as follows:

1. The Board may form an ad hoc committee or designate the appropriate subcommittee to conduct the review.
2. The Board or the subcommittee responsible for conducting the review will request copies of the completed Form #1, "Brookfield Resident's Request for Reconsideration of Materials", as well as the report completed by the school's Special Review Committee concerning the challenged material.
3. The materials in question shall be read, viewed, or listened to in their entirety.
4. Determine if the materials meet the selection criteria in the library's collection development policy.
5. The subcommittee may solicit advice or opinion from District faculty, administrators, and/or relevant professional institutions such as the American Library Association and the Connecticut State Department of Education.
6. Both the values as well as the faults of the material shall be weighed, and a decision will be based on the materials as a whole and not on passages pulled out of context.
7. Challenged instructional materials shall remain in use in the schools pending a final decision.
8. The subcommittee will make a recommendation to the Board to either retain the material or remove it.
9. The Board of Education shall render the final decision.

Those reviewing challenged materials will give their opinion with the following guiding principles in mind:

1. Parents or guardians have the right to guide the reading, viewing, and listening of their children but must give the same right to other parents/guardians.
2. Any person has the right to express concerns about library resources and expect to have the objection taken seriously.
3. School libraries have the responsibility to provide diverse materials reflecting differing points of view, and a library's mission is to provide access to information to all users.
4. When library resources are reconsidered, the principles of the freedom to read, listen, and view are defended rather than specific materials.
5. All library users have a First Amendment right to read, view, and listen to library resources.
6. The Library Bill of Rights and the Freedom to Read Statement of the American Library Association can be used as guiding documents.
7. The reconsideration process should be completed in its entirety and not subverted or ended prematurely.

Brookfield School Library Media Guidelines — Regulation

The Brookfield School Library Media Centers provide informational, cultural and recreational resources, without prejudice as to format - to support the goals and objectives of Brookfield Schools and to guide our patrons to become effective users of information. The Selection Policy has been developed to insure consistency in the library's collection of resources.

Selection

Purpose

To promote the acquisition of resources that are compatible with the philosophy, goals, and objectives of the schools as well as the needs of the students, faculty, administrators, and staff.

Goal

To purchase quality materials which reflect the needs and interests of our whole school community.

General Principles:

The Brookfield Library Media Centers endorses the American Library Association Bill of Rights (see Appendix A) and the American Association of School Librarians An Interpretation of the Library Bill of Rights (see Appendix B) which asserts that the responsibility of a school library is:

- To provide materials that will enrich and support the curriculum, taking into consideration the varied interests, abilities, and maturity levels of the students served.
- To provide materials that will stimulate growth in factual knowledge, literary appreciation, aesthetic values and ethical standards.
- To provide a background of information that will enable students to make intelligent judgments in their daily lives.
- To provide quality materials with opposing points of view.
- To provide quality materials which represent the many different voices in our world community especially with regard to gender, race, class, ethnicity, cultural, and religious groups.

Instruction

- To provide a broad range of materials on diverse and/or controversial issues to help students develop critical analytical skills and assure a comprehensive collection appropriate for users of the library.

Acquisitions Criteria:

- Authoritativeness and accuracy.
- Reputation of the author or originator of the resource.
- Relevance and significance of subject matter and supplementary subject matter.
- Clarity of presentation.
- Timeliness or permanence of the materials.
- Availability of materials on the subject.
- Literary merit or artistic quality and interest to users.
- Importance to total collection.
- Provide a Stimulus to creativity.
- Price, format, and physical durability.
- Appropriateness of: content, concepts, themes, and vocabulary suited to the audience.

A single source need not meet all the criteria in order to be acquired. In general, the acquisitions should reflect a significant number of these criteria.

Selection Tools:

In order to assure intelligent discrimination in the selection of resources some of the following selection tools are used for reviewing purposes:

- Library Journal
- School Library Journal
- Booklist
- Publishers Weekly
- Horn Book

Reviews which appear in major newspapers, periodicals, scholarly journals, and specialized journals are also considered.

Responsibility for Selection:

The responsibility for the selection of library resources rests with the Library Media Specialists in charge of the individual school libraries. Participation in the selection process is encouraged by the collaborative efforts of the schools' staffs. Faculty and administrators' recommendations are actively solicited and student recommendations are encouraged.

The Brookfield School Library Media Centers encourage gifts of books other printed materials, works of art, realia, money for the purchase of books or other resources which will enhance the collections.

The libraries accept gifts with the understanding that those gifts ~~—books—~~ which meet the standards set forth in our selection policy or enhance in some unique way the library collections will be retained. Other books will be disposed of in whatever manner the library determines to be the most suitable, such as, gifts to other libraries or non-profit institutions, exchanges for the needed books of equal value or sales with the money to be used for the purchase of books.

The library media specialist or other library personnel in charge of the library program, the donor and other appropriate persons are involved in the discussions, negotiations and decisions. If the gift is of sufficient value to be considered a major gift, the Principal should be informed and involved as appropriate.

Instruction

Individual books will be identified by appropriate bookplates, indicating the name of the donor and other specified information. Non-book gifts will be identified by whatever means is most appropriate.

The library, under no circumstances, ever acts as an appraiser. All gifts shall be acknowledged.

Weeding

In order to maintain the quality of the collection, obsolete and unused books are removed from the working collection on a continuous basis. The advice of individual faculty, academic departments or other uniquely qualified individuals is sought when appropriate. No materials will be withdrawn or discarded only because they contain controversial or unpopular opinions. The school Library Media Specialist will be responsible for the regular weeding process.

Infrequently used books are retained if they contribute to the excellence of the collection and are cited in standard subject bibliographies.

The process of weeding the collection involves time, skill in collection development, expertise in collection maintenance, a thorough knowledge of books and their potential reference or research value for the library users.

Criteria for Weeding:

- Obsolescence (especially science, technology, mathematics, and the social sciences.)
- Physical condition.
- Number of copies.
- Coverage of the subject by other materials in the collection.

Ken Post, Director of Business Operations:

Girl Scouts in Brookfield would like to appeal the fee requirement for non-profit groups. Our troops would then like to meet directly after school, on school days, at CES, HHES, and WMS. The meetings take place bi-monthly, one troop per school, for about 90 minutes.

FYI, all troop members are students at the respective schools.
