1. Session Title: Formative Assessment: assessment practices to meet students where they are.

Session Description: We will work through the when, how and why of formative assessment, and walk away with something you can use the very next day in your classrooms. Formative assessment can look different in each discipline, but when used with purpose (for learning) it can transform student engagement and student outcomes in your classroom.

The following is an excerpt from A repair Kit for Grading, Ken O'Connor, 2007, p. 97. "Their research and the work of others have shown that improving formative assessment and using assessment for learning raises the achievement of all students, but it has the most significant impact on low achievers. Learning gains made through using assessment for learning are similar to those achieved through one-on-one coaching."

Presenter(s): Mark Jewett and Ed Bednarik

2. Session Title: Managing Differentiation through Resources and Flexible Groupings

Session Description: Learn how to cognitively engage students in differentiated tasks through selection of resources and flexible groupings. We will discuss differentiation and systems to help manage it within the classroom. Then we will tour resources in our library as well as online resources like Commonlit.org. Staff will then have the opportunity to pull resources and develop groupings to support a differentiated lesson within one of their classrooms.

Presenters: June Gordon and Jeni Brown

3. Session Title: Promoting Belonging, Student Voice, and Well-Being Through Community Circles

Session Description: This session will provide background on what community circles are, why they are beneficial for students' social and academic development, and strategize their use in the classroom. Participants will also actively take part in a circle and will leave with several models they can use in their own classrooms.

Presenter(s): Heather Batchelor & Sarah Bratchell

4. Session Title: SEL Strategies for Regulation

Session Description: In this interactive session, you'll explore a wide variety of tools that you can use with your students to help them get and stay regulated and focused.

Presenter(s): Rachel Cohen

5. Session Title: Critical Thinking: The Skill, The Will, and The Thrill!

Session Description: This session will provide background on the Cognitive Rigor Matrices developed by Karin Hess based on Bloom's Taxonomy and Norman Webb's Depth of Knowledge (DoK). Then, several strategies for increasing students' cognitive rigor will be shared.
